Domestic and livestock water is provided by a spring on the property now known as 3126 E. Woodland Road, Downey, Idaho. The spring has supplied water to this property since 1888 when the property was homesteaded by Joseph Bloxham and his family. At that time water was carried in buckets and/or flowed in trenches for use. Now it is captured in a concrete block structure and gravity fed to the points of use: house, barn, corrals.

I have lived next door to this property all my life and can personally remember this spring in use since 1932.
