Subject: RE: POSSIBLE WITHDRAWAL OF RECOMMENDATION

Hi Doug,

We had a similar situation come up in Basin 29. The Department erroneously recommended the claimant's right as D&S (he had a mobile home park, we thought he had just one home). When we realized the error, we went ahead and withdrew the recommendation and told the court that we would re-recommend the right with the I&O report, and he agreed to withdraw his objection.

If we think this should be in the I&O report, seems to me we should withdraw the D&S recommendation right away and not bother with the objection process. The special master would probably want a stipulation to withdraw the director's report from the claimant (Haemmerle asked for this kind of stipulation from the guy in Basin 29).

I can't think of any reason why it would be better to go through the objection process, can you?

If you agree that we should go ahead and withdraw the recommendation, let me know and I will draft up the paperwork.

Sara

Subject: POSSIBLE WITHDRAWAL OF RECOMMENDATION

Hi Sara!

I am beginning an query to initiate a D&S recommendation withdrawal. The alternative is objection, etc. The scenario is: 47-13581 was claimed made for non-de minimis use (4 homes, more than 1/2 ac, more than $25, four owners). The claim was recommended to court for de minimis use.

I believe we can affirmatively recommend the right in the subsequent I&O report in a couple of years with reasonable conditions. Now IDWR has to decide whether to get an objection and resolve it with an SF-5 and decree a non-deminimis right at this time; or withdraw the recommendation and include this in the I&O report.

Look forward to hearing back from you!

Doug
