In responding to these production requests, the United States should be guided by the definitions and instructions below.

I. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. In responding to the requests, furnish all information available to you, including information in the possession of your attorneys, or their investigators, and information to which you have a superior right to request or compel from a third party, such as your agent or representative. If you cannot respond to a request in full after exercising due diligence to secure the information, so state in your response and to the extent possible, produce whatever information you have.

1. specify the date of the document, the names and job titles of the preparer(s), sender(s), and recipient(s) of the document; and
2. state the date of, and identify the person responsible for its destruction, loss, transfer, or other action by which the document left the possession, custody, or control of the United States; and
3. explain the circumstances surrounding the authorization of the destruction or disposition of the document(s).

DAVID J. BARBER, being first duly sworn upon oath, deposes and says:

1. I make the following statements based on personal knowledge.

COPY

2. I am an attorney licensed to practice law within the State of Idaho. I am a Deputy Attorney General for the State of Idaho Office of the Attorney General. I am assigned to represent the State of Idaho in the designated subcases.

3. The Court held a hearing on these subcases on Thursday April 17, 2003. Counsel for the United States represented to the Court that the United States wanted to introduce a document from of a file obtained from the National Archives. I understood that the United States would informally disclose this file to the State of Idaho when the United States filed its amended motion to alter or amend.

4. The parties agreed to the following deadlines and hearing time, and the Court entered an order establishing these deadlines in these matters:

Deadline for United States to amend Motion to Alter or Amend	April 30, 2003
--	----------------

Deadline for Memorandum from the State of Idaho	May 16, 2003
---	--------------

Hearing by telephone	June 5, 2003

5. Counsel for the United States called me on or about April 30, 2003, told me that it needed a short extension of time to consult with its client, and requested me to agree to the extension. I replied that I was willing to agree to an extension if the United States would not oppose a similar extension if I needed it. I also inquired about the status of the National Archive file, and counsel for the United States informed me that the United States would not make the file available to me.

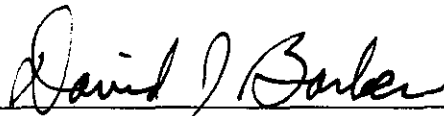

6. My agreement to the schedule set forth in paragraph 4 above was predicated on being able to review the National Archive file without a formal discovery request. It assumed that I would have from May 1, 2003 through May 16, 2003, to make a determination whether I needed to file any additional documents in response.

7. The failure and refusal of the United States to disclose the National Archive file to the State of Idaho makes it impossible to meet the deadlines agreed to by counsel and set by the Court.

Further your Affiant sayeth naught.
