This letter is in response to your letter to me on 30 July 04 relating to information regarding the about reference Identification Number.

I assume that this water source relates to small stream called Honey Spring with its source about 1 mile upstream from the homesteaded property. I was 10 year old when I first became acquainted with the place. It was in 1933. At that time it was farmed by August Crist (my uncle) and his wife Margaret. They had a son Bobby who lives near Dayton NV or did 4 or 5 years ago when I was last in contract with them.

I do not know the date of filing for the water rights. It certainly was early when homesteads were being filed in the area. It may have been 1882. The original filling was probably by August Crist's father. August's sister Laura(?) was born in a dug out cabin on the place in the mid 1890's. It certainly had been in used a long time by the time I arrived. Also since I never heard of any law suits it must have been filed about this time (1882) as other homesteaders right west of this place would have filed on the water rights.

When I first saw it there was a small dam in the creek and the water was used for irrigation and stock.

These water rights are completely separate from the Bray Lake Reservoir rights this place later obtained (well before 1933).

I trust this information is of some help and use;

Sincerely

Donald T. Bray
