

RECEIVED

NOV 06 2003

October 27, 2003

Department of Water Resources
Eastern Region

To Whom It May Concern:

The well at the Rigby Pioneer Cemetery was originally drilled in the spring of 1955.

Because there are no minutes or records to refer to who drilled the well or the exact date it was drilled, the next solution was to talk to those associated with the cemetery in the 50's and 60's. Then reference the well drilling to events in their lives.

Reference # 1

The current secretary/treasure, . M. Bishop moved to Rigby in 1950 and became involved with the cemetery shortly there after. He believes it was drilled during the spring of 1955 as mentioned.

Reference # 1

The sexton and employee of the local mortuary during the late 60's relates it to his graduation from mortuary school. He also puts the drilling during the middle 50's.

\ I hope this is sufficient evidence for what you need.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Eugene Purser", followed by a long horizontal line extending to the right.

Eugene Purser
Board Chairman