To Whom It May Concern:

During the early 1900's, my grandfather, George Ether Casper, owned and farmed the farm Brent Call now owns. They raised their family there and my father, Charles W. Casper was born while they were living there in 1906. They had a well for their use which I understood was hand dug.

To who it May concern.

I am writing this letter to verify the use of the well on what was then known as the Casper farm and is now owned by Brent Call.

I have lived within a mile & half of this place all my life, I am now 82 years old. As I had one of my responsibilities was to see that the cattle got water. We had to drive them (for cattle) to the Canal and haul water for the house.

It is interesting how some memories last so long. I remember as a kid used drive by the Casper farm on a sleigh in the winter. Their cattle were drinking from the trough which was close by the house, and thinking, boy when I grow up, I'm going to have a well and save all the hard work, chopping a hole in the ice & driving the cattle to water.

As with everything else, the scale of farming has gotten larger, as with Brent he worked his self into a large dairy and now a dry feed lot many times larger than what the Casper had with their cattle and horses.
