 C O N F I D E N T I A L  ATTORNEY COMMUNICATION ***

To: Jan Shurte, Western Region IDWR

From: J. Andrew Helmlinger

Re: Bruneau Adjudication

Date: June 27, 1997

MEMORANDUM

This is to confirm the conversation we had reconciling two memorandums addressing rights adjudicated in the Bruneau Decree (Grand View Irrig. Dist. v. Bruneau Buckaroo Co-op et al.). Although the decree adjudicated the domestic and stockwater rights of all parties to the case, the decree likely did not include instream water rights. Therefore, when a claimant asserts a non-decreed right appurtenant to acreage that has other rights decreed in the Bruneau Adjudication, IDWR should recommend the unadjudicated right with a priority date one day after the date of the Bruneau Adjudication Decree, unless the unadjudicated right is an instream right.

Because the Bruneau Adjudication Decree stated generally that each right was for domestic use, livestock and irrigation, "to the extent of their needs," IDWR may assume that independent claims to varied uses with sources and priority dates that match a decreed right for the same place of use are themselves decreed rights. If the source is different, IDWR must treat the claim as described above for unadjudicated claims. If the priority date is earlier than the decreed right, IDWR may either treat the claim as an unadjudicated right, or may recommend the claim as a part of the decreed right with the decreed priority date.

As always, the opinion expressed in this memorandum is that of the author alone and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the Attorney General.
