1-20-04. 4:47pm. Bruce Findley - LDS Church called to discuss this right. He wanted to find out if the Church could keep a portion of 27-4113 for irrigation? I explained, no, because this statutory claim was domestic only. It's based on historic use not future use. I explained there is a moratorium on new irrigation wells. They would have to purchase another w/p and transfer it to the POD. It would also depend on the capacity of the well. Bruce is going to encourage the others to get the paperwork completed to transfer this well to the Jonestown Community Well. He said that some of the users haven't been paying their assessments and the LDS Church wants to stay clear of that issue.

Cindy, Thank you very much. Since we spoke, I have called Rick Tew, our facilities manager, and he verified we no sprinkle no more than one-half acre. He will send me a new site plan showing this which I will fax you next week. It looks like there may be no need for the Notice of Claim at this point.

RE: adj. Claim

Conversation: Wondering about the adjudication claim for this water.

In Aug 1992 the church was rebuilt and a new well was drilled and the old well was conveyed to Jameston Comm. well, but according to Elliot the water wasn't conveyed with the well? I explained that would be like buying a car with no tires I also asked him who now owns the water.

6/3/03 9:30 AM. Mr. Hawks, LDS Church, Real Estate
division, Salt Lake City

This well was transferred to the Jameson Community well. It's still on Church property.

They drilled a different well and it wasn't producing enough water so they abandoned it and drilled this well.

- Question for Mr. Hawks.

Is the priority date the date of the first or second well?

- When did it go to the Jameson Commn.
given to the community in 1992.

6/4/03 3:25 pm.

- drilled New Well in 1992

- Church house was build 1953. - Mr. Pasam.

- 4 OR 5 homes. drilled there own wells

- water lawns?, 4 homes left on the system.
