To Whom It May Concern:

I was able to talk with two neighbors that are 3rd generation ranchers in the Horseflat area. One has a ranch adjacent to my ranch and the other rancher used to rent my ranch. After talking with them it is apparent that the areas I designated as irrigated on the map that Misty brought back have always been irrigated. Probably, as soon as the ranch was homesteaded in the early nineteen hundred's.

The ground is productive pasture and hay land and without the water it is way less productive as dry land pasture. The water that leaves this place is used again by other rancher's, and it also helps keep lower Camp Creek flowing before it goes back into Pine Creek.

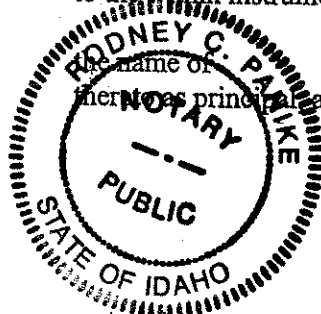

Sincerely,

Monte Spiering
