To Whom it may Concern:

As we remember water on the Salem Union Canal and North Salem Agriculture and Milling Canal.

We bought the place in February 1958. In the fall of the year, we had stock water as long as the cattle were in the fields. Some years as late as late November. We never had to worry about hauling water for them. Bringing home on Thanksgiving morning.

In the ^{spring} domestic wells started going dry in late winter & early spring (March) water was turned in, also to help melt the snow & ice in the canals so a good stream ^{could} come in April.

Ryan,

could this also
work for N. Salem
as it is actually N.
Salem that flows
through their field.
