Dear Sirs:

I would like to follow up on your irrigation claims that we talked about during the 1993 season. You will remember that we made a map of your fields at the house. In order to complete the claims I will now need to measure the water at your diversions that you have claimed. You can describe your irrigation practice to me at that time also.

I will be in the area next week, June 12th to the 16th doing other reviews. I will call you ahead of time to arrange a time to come out.

If it is more convenient you can call the agent in the Salmon office, Bob Foster, at 756-6644 and tell him when you can see me. You can always call my office at the number on the letterhead to leave a message.

Respectfully,

Francis G. Hitchcock

Dear Mr. Baker:

When I stopped to talk with you about drawing in the ditches and water use on the aerial maps Tuesday, September 21, 1993, at 3:55 pm, you refused saying that you "had filed your claims and that was it".

I must tell you again that we are required to investigate all claims filed in the Snake River Basin Adjudication. The field examination is authorized by Idaho Code Sections 42-1410 and 42-217.

We need to have the map of the acreage irrigated and your irrigation practice. As I have said before without this information we can't make a recommendation of your water rights to the court. The court will not recommend your water rights in the final decree and your rights to use the water will be lost.

Please contact me at my office number, 736-3033, to schedule a date and time before the end of September to complete the map of your water system and your usages. The office staff will see that I get your message at once even if I am on the East Fork that day.

Please contact me as soon as possible.

Respectfully,

Francis G. Hitchcock

I further said if we needed to go to a division or take measurements then I would certainly bring my request to them.

Sr. reiterated that no one can go on land. JR. pointed out that I'm the only person who has ever gotten this far with them.

I pointed out that our mutual courtesy has allowed us to get to this point. I said I would continue to communicate in writing and do anything I could to get review completed with as little inconvenience as possible.

I would like to do the claims review for your water wages as we have discussed starting THURSDAY morning, August 19, 1993.

My review is to photograph and map the system on your lands. Then I will meet with you so you can review what I've done and tell me how you do the irrigation by number of sets, how long for each, etc.

Please call me if this time isn't satisfactory. If I don't hear from you I will stop @ the house on Thursday morning to confirm with you. Thank you.

Model waters' ed committees take tour of East Fork

Ralph Swift, Coordinator for the Model Watershed Project, reported that the technical committee and advisory committee toured the East Fork River on May 13. The group viewed firsthand the river and the concern for anadromous fish in this basin.

The first stop on the tour was at a typical diversion point on the East Fork River. The diversion was wooden with a wiper type screen. Chuck Keller, Idaho Fish and Game Coordinator for the fish screen program, reported on the criteria used for the screen program that had been developed by National Marine Fisheries. The new screens are designed to do a couple of key things: 1. Provide irrigators with their historical water use; 2. Protect anadromous fish throughout their life cycle. This includes very small fry as they emerge from the gravel and are swept downstream. This has caused the screens to become larger and more costly to build. He also stated that he hired two people to measure water in the Salmon and Challis areas to document these historic flows. The only purpose of this water measurement is to determine maximum flows in the ditch so the screen can be designed accordingly.

Swift told the group that the headgate was also being designed to assist operators in making irrigation water diversion with a minimum of disturbance to the river channel and to protect the screen. Assistance for this is from the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Swift reported the next stop on the tour was to look at a proposed consolidation of three diversions at the mouth of Herd Creek. Doug Baker, land owner and irrigator, reviewed the plan that would eliminate two diversions and the need for two fish screens. These would be replaced by a flume and an inverted siphon out of the top diversion. Benefits of this project would be the elimination of portable dams from the Herd Creek diversions and the reduction of the cost of building and operation of two additional fish screens. Other benefits would be improved passage of both adult and juvenile salmon in Herd Creek. Cost of the proposed project would be spread over several sources.

Jim Bennetts' private land followed the Baker project stop. This property is sandwiched between public lands. Swift read a letter prepared by Bennetts that outlined the history of the work on his place. The work included some fencing of riparian areas to improve streamside vegetation with overhanging cover. Bennetts has worked with the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes and the Idaho Fish and Game on this project. Bennetts stated that he wanted to improve the cover for fish but at the same time do it so that it was cost effective with tax and ratepayer money. Work was done with volunteer labor.

Betty Baker gave a history of the East Fork River and stated that the Baker family has been in the basin since about 1880. Currently there is a sixth generation of Bakers growing up on the ranch. She stated they were in support of maintaining and improving the salmon run to the East Fork. The family has been brought up with a conservative ethic to protect the bighorn sheep and the salmon. She also expressed a concern that while the bureaucracy probed and studied the issue and dealt with inconsequential issues such as cattle grazing in the East Fork, the salmon would become extinct. Her concern is that the cattle rancher would also become extinct as they receive the blame. She challenged the agency people to look closely at what the real issues are and to spend the majority of the money where it could make a difference. She felt that ranchers are willing to take care of problems when direct benefits can be seen for both the fish and the rancher.

The group then traveled to Eddie Baker's to look at some typical streambank erosion problems. These banks don't do the fish or the rancher any good. Streambank work needs to be done in a way that treats the problem while creating some fish habitat. Swift went over a plan for rock barbs that would deflect the current from the bank. Large cottonwoods would be cabled between the barbs to provide protection and some overhanging bank cover while willows become re-established.

The final stop was spent looking at some rock weirs installed to provide grade control to a diversion structure and viewing the East Fork satellite hatchery facility.

Swift reported this was a very good tour that gave a general review of problems and alternatives. The next step would be to make a more detailed survey of these and to quantify the needs. This will be completed this summer.

The technical work group met in the afternoon to discuss what they had seen in the East Fork and the Lemhi. They are meeting on an every-other-month basis. It was decided to meet only quarterly. Smaller groups will meet on an "as-needed" basis to deal with specific issues. Gary Steinbach of the Bureau of Reclamation (BOR) reported that the pre-drawings of the five diversions from L-3A to L-7A were complete and that the BOR will be in Salmon the first week of June to review these with the diversion owners.
