Subject: Late Claim 37-22326: Filing Fee Overpayment

Howdy,

There is a bit of a history to this one:

We received late claim 67-22326 on July 7, 2008. We sent it back because the claimant didn't claim a priority date and told the claimant that they needed to file a motion to amend the claim with the court.

The claimant did file the motion to amend the claim, but I do not see that the court assigned a hearing date to hear the motion to amend the claim. I assume they will address the motion to file the late claim and the motion to amend the late claim on the same hearing date of 11/18/08, but I do not have any documentation of that.

With that background, the claimant paid $100.00 for a de-minimus claim which is the old fee schedule. The actual filing fee is $25.00.

Should the motion to file be approved, and the claimant does actually pay the $100.00, we will need to refund the claimant $75.00.

Thanks,

Craig
