12. Do you own the property listed above as place of use? ~~See Remarks.~~

13. Describe any other water rights used at the same place and for the same purposes as described above? A37-00296B is the same as the irrigation from storage component of this beneficial use claim, except the priority date precedes the construction of the dam and lake on which this Claim is based.

14. Remarks: The place of use consists of subdivision common area owned by the Applicant and individual lots owned by members of Applicant. The attached Affidavit describes the date of construction of the dam and lake and the beneficial uses of the stored water. Indian Creek has been decreed as a "dry stream" in S. C. Frost v. Alturus Water Company and, therefore, is not administered, monitored or controlled by the District 37 Watermaster. If and when it flows to the mouth of the canyon, it flows into the Hiawatha Canal and is not tributary to any other natural stream or watercourse. The Affidavit of Kenneth R. Buttram is attached to support the claimed priority date and beneficial uses.

37-296B, 37-19740 (a storage right from Indian Creek) and 37-21412 (an enlargement claim associated with 37-19740)

37-296B

37-296B is the decreed right associated with the irrigated ground from the City of Hailey's diversion system to the Hiawatha canal. Initially the claim was for all of the POU historically irrigated but in 1996 transfer 4713 was filed to add points of diversion and change a portion of the POU. The transfer was approved recognizing the additional PODs and 35 acres of irrigated ground. Prior to 1996 it was found that a period of greater than five years of non use existed for the remainder of the claim. After the SRBA court ruling that claims filed in the SRBA stayed forfeiture it was determined that a portion of the historically irrigated POU had been irrigated within the 1982 time frame, thus claim 37-21412 was filed for 76.2 additional acres of which 67.9 acres were eventually recommended. The second claim was filed rather than having the transfer set-aside as the claimant did not want to go through the transfer process a second time. 37-21412 was amended in February of 2010 to change the claim from irrigation to an enlargement claim for the storage right 37-19750.

37-296B was also amended in February of 2010 to increase the POU to 235.4 acres and to add multiple points of diversion. Stockwater for 1000 head of stock was also added. Discussions with allocations have been held regarding the withdrawal of T-4713 have been held but no final decision has been reached as of this date.

The original claim was filed in 1994 and amended in Feb of 2010. The amendment increased the reservoir capacity from 45 af to 50 af and increased the irrigation from storage from 45 af to 700 af to recognize multiple fills. Dam safety records show that in 1992 the reservoir capacity was 19AF. During the 1992 inspection, the right holder had to bring in tools to be able to open the gate. No wheel was available. Stockwater and wildlife storage components were also added to the claim. The POU was slightly decreased from 200 ac to 186.7 acres.

The February 2010 amendment is asserting a 6-1-1931 priority date for a 50 af reservoir utilized for irrigation, wildlife, recreation, wildlife, and stockwater storage and irrigation from storage at 700 af. The 700 af is based upon a release of 50 af every 2 weeks (14 times per season) for flood irrigation below the reservoir.

The claimed source is Indian Creek and ground water. A single point of diversion at the reservoir is claimed.

Analysis

Evidence of priority is sufficient to recommend the claimed priority date. The system is an on-stream storage facility with water being diverted by the reservoir dike. Storage water from the reservoir is released into Indian Creek and then re-diverted at various points along the stream channel. Neither injection nor redirection points are claimed. A number of department personnel with 20 + years of employment have stated that they have never observed storage water being used for irrigation purposes. The reservoir has always been full when checked or observed. It is not clear when the storage water ceased to be used for irrigation purposes. Best information indicates that it was prior to 1987 but the exact date is not known. Ground water is included as a source. It is not clear how the ground water source is a part of the system at this time.

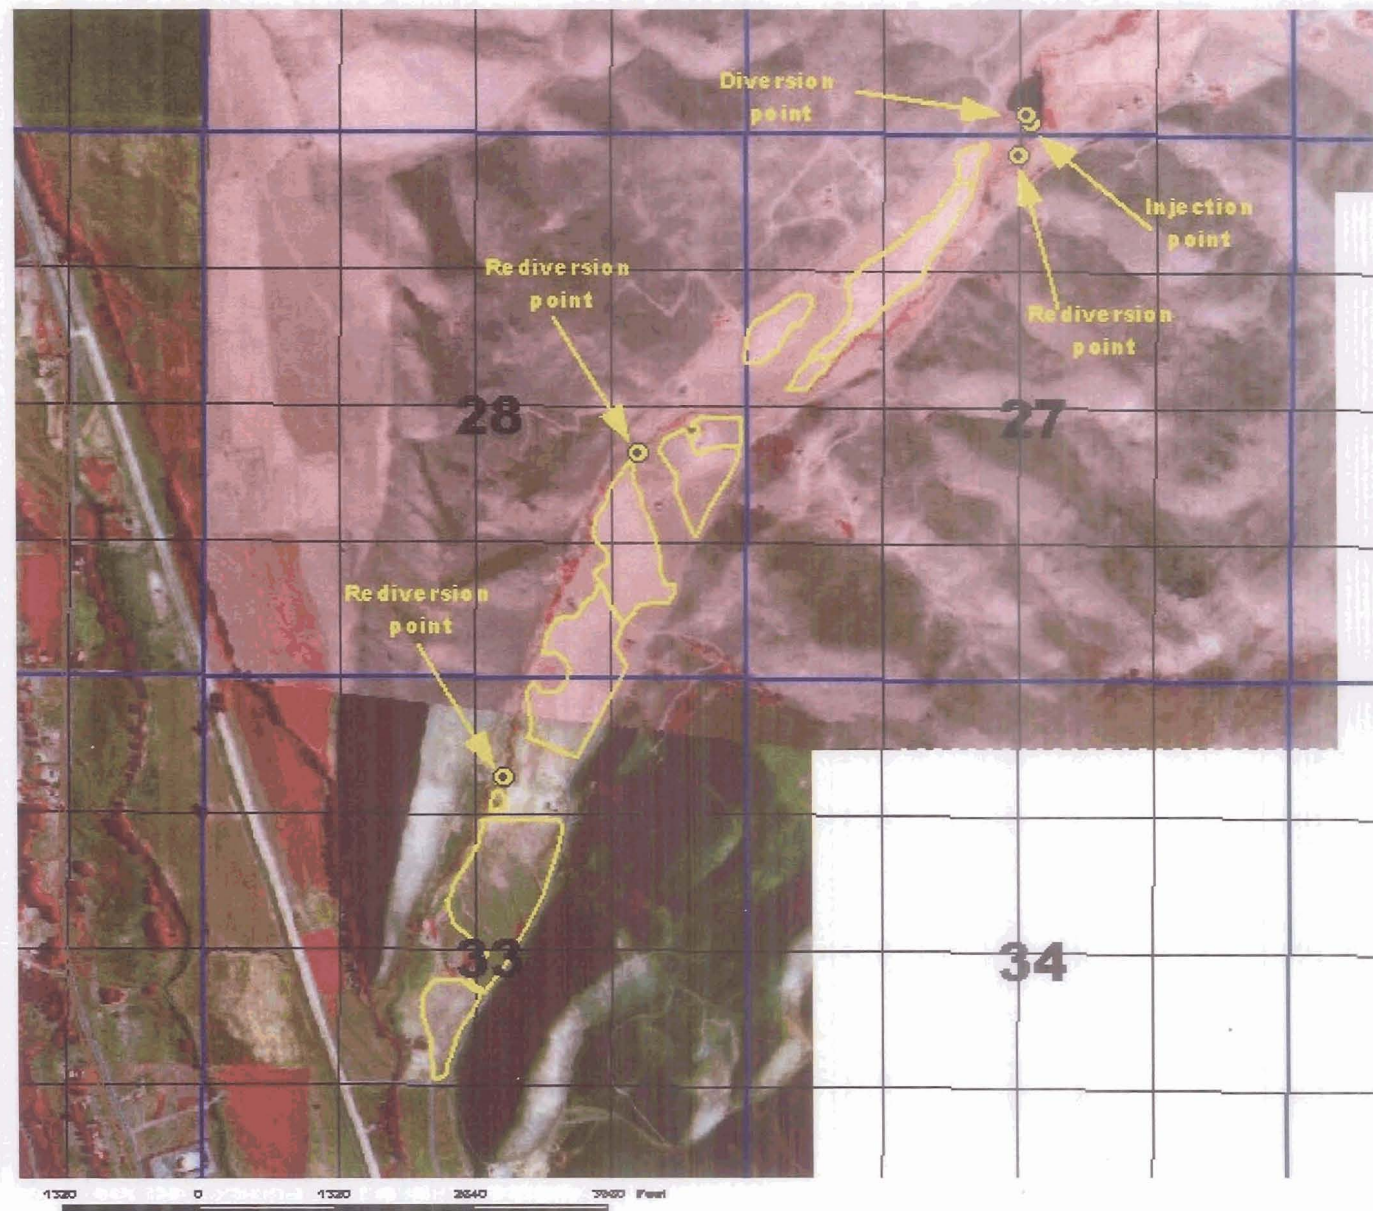

37-21412

37-21412 is claimed as an enlargement of 37-19740. As of this date evidence of priority has not been submitted. Along with Indian Creek and ground water, springs is listed as a source. The amended claim includes two points of diversion, one at the reservoir and a second at the head of Indian Creek. This point of diversion is associated with a bypass of the City of Hailey's intake structure for the city water pipeline. Also included as a part of the claim is a beginning and ending point for the Indian Creek Channel below the reservoir and to the Hiawatha canal.

As it currently stands several of the elements of this claim do not fit well with the claimed purpose.

1. The addition of sources does not fit with an enlargement claim. At the very least it suggests that additional water is being added to the diversion rate.
2. Having the City water bypass water return or just flow into Indian Creek does not appear to meet the criteria of a point of diversion controlled by the Association.
3. The beginning and ending points of diversion are normally associated with an in-stream water use. The place of use lists all 40-acre tracts that Indian Creek flows through from the City bypass location to the Hiawatha canal. It is hard to conceive how an additional source/point of diversion above the reservoir fits with an enlargement of 37-19740.
4. Dana Hofsteter is arguing that the Lucky Peak Reservoir decision associated with Stream Channel Maintenance gives precedence for recognizing this right. I do not see how they compare.
5. 37-19740 is claimed as a storage right for 50 af of storage for irrigation stockwater and wildlife uses year round and 700 af of diversion from storage for irrigation during the irrigation season. 37-21412 is claimed for the same 50 af storage for wildlife and recreation storage and adds aesthetic storage for year round use. Those uses appear to be duplicative.
 - a. Added uses are wildlife, recreation, aesthetic, and fire protection at 4.01 cfs for year round use. This rate appears to be associated with 37-296B rather than 37-19750 as there is no diversion rate associated with that claim. It does not appear reasonable to "enlarge" a volume use into a diversion rate.
 - b. Also included are wildlife, recreation, and aesthetic from storage uses at 50 af each for year round use. Expanding the season of use would create a new use during the non-irrigation season. As a side note, if the claim is for the water being released from the reservoir for irrigation from storage then this claim would be only associated with the initial diversion from storage for the first 50 af rather than the subsequent 700 af released throughout the irrigation season.
