EXHIBIT A

Water right number 27-11317 should remain on the list of protected water rights under the Fort Hall Indian Water Rights Agreement (the “Fort Hall Agreement”) for the following reasons:

1. Plain language of Agreement. The Committee of Nine’s Response to the Content of the State’s List of Rights (the “Committee of Nine Response”) contradicts the plain language of the Fort Hall Agreement. The Fort Hall Agreement subordinates water right number 27-11317 to “persons diverting natural flow from the Blackfoot River prior to January 1, 1990, whose rights are decreed in the SRBA.” This provision is unambiguous and therefore must be construed according to its plain meaning. The priority date of water right number 27-11317 is in 1929. Therefore, it meets the criterion of having diverted water prior to 1990, and is protected under the plain meaning of the Agreement.

Since the Fort Hall Agreement is unambiguous, the SRBA Court cannot consider the Affidavit of David Shaw or any other parol evidence submitted by the Committee of Nine in attempt to change the plain meaning of the Agreement. The Committee of Nine’s attempt to have the SRBA Court rewrite the Fort Hall Agreement to mean that it only protects water rights “being irrigated in the 1986-87 timeframe” is without any legal basis and must be rejected.

2. Unconstitutional. Removing water right number 27-11317 from the list of rights that are protected under the Fort Hall Agreement violates the constitutional rule that water is to be administered based on priority of appropriation. The Committee of Nine Response would, if granted, cause water right number 27-11317 to effectively become subordinate to other Blackfoot River water rights with later priority dates (potentially as late as 1989). Further, removing certain pre-1990 water rights from subordination protection under the Fort Hall Agreement creates an enormous “rebound call” problem that would undermine the very purpose of the Agreement.
3. Collateral attack on decree. The Committee of Nine Response is a procedurally impermissible collateral attack on the SRBA partial decree entered on March 30, 2011 for Water Right No. 27-11317.
4. Attorney fees and costs. The Committee of Nine Response is unreasonable, frivolous, and without any basis in Idaho law. Therefore, Alma A. Hubbard (the owner of water right number 27-11317) should be awarded its attorney fees and costs incurred in defending against the Committee of Nine Response, pursuant to Idaho Code sections 12-121 and/or 12-123.
5. Reservation of defenses. Alma A. Hubbard reserves the right to raise additional defenses to the Committee of Nine Response, including but not limited to evidence of actual water use during the 1986-87 timeframe if necessary.
