Re: Water usage at (Mica School) Mica Flats Grange

To the best of my recollection the Mica School began in use about 1901. The water during my time there as a student, 1940 through 1945, was carried from the home across the street and put in a 5 or so gallon stone crock. During that time there was a horse barn on the property. The neighbors across the street allowed the students who rode horses to school to water their horses in the stock tank at their barn.

In 1946 the Mica Flats Grange was organized and a water pipe from the Jarard property across the street was installed. Water was received from that well until the Mica Flats Grange drilled their own well which is in use today.

To whom it may concern:

Mica School came into existence around 1898. Since the very beginning water was supplied by the owners of the property just south of the school. Water was carried by bucket to the school.

When the school closed and it became a grange, water was piped to the building for kitchen use only. The owners were Elmer and Minnie Jarrad. This happened in 1946.

Property from the grange was sold to the telephone company and the well was drilled to supply water for inside toilets. This took place in 1967.

Sincerely,

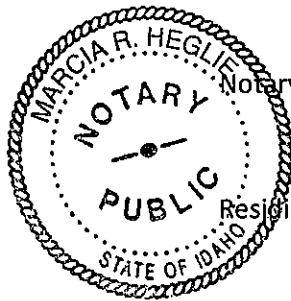

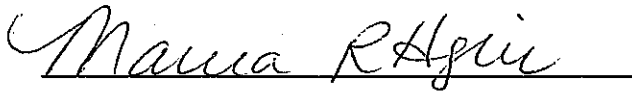

Vera Weniger
