Washington in Warren's Camp

GOLD WAS DISCOVERED as early as August 1862 by James Warren in the Salmon River basin and he returned within a month to Lewiston. That same month the Washington Statesman, Walla Walla, printed a set of mining laws for the Warrens discovery district. Like the laws of some other mining camps it contained an article, Article XI, about the Chinese which in this case read: "All Chinamen are prohibited from holding claims or working in this district as hired men."

Two settlements were made in the Warrens district which were indicative of the sympathies of two rival groups during the Civil War period. They were Washington and Richmond. In 1869 Washington was chosen county seat and continued in that role until 1875 when Mount Idaho became the third county seat. Gradually the settlement came to be called Warrens and still later merely Warren.

In the fall of 1872 there were only four hundred men in the Warrens district, according to Leo Hofen, a resident of the district at that time. The claims in general had been worked clean and did not pay to suit the "ounce a day men," so a vote was taken and the Chinese were allowed to come into the camp to the number of twelve hundred men. They bought claims for many of which they paid as high as eight thousand dollars. Many Chinamen threw up the claims the day after paying for them. It cost them so much to live that they made little or nothing. When they learned that flour was cheaper than rice some did better and a few became rich. In 1879 there were one hundred and fifty whites and six hundred Chinese working at Warrens.

A report by Horatio C. Burchard on the production of gold and silver in the United States formation:

"Placer mining in Warren companies in Warrens own and employ about 200 men ing production:

Took Sing C
Lin Wo Cor
Hung Wo C
Wing Wo C
Shun Lee C

"In addition to this amount produced $22,500, white men about $1000 making the total 450."

The mint report, Precious Metals 1884-1885, gave the total amount of gold produced by companies as $57,700. Aside from the forty Chinese have mined their production may be reckoned in dollars.

Several bills of sale and contracts are of interest. The first fifteen dollars for mining Creek by Keating, Bellew, and in order of time was:

"October 1, 1870: Bill of sale for three claims in Richmond Gulch.

Attached is a claim with a date of priority of June 1, 1850 and her letter supporting the date of priority. It is possible that water was first used then, however, gold was first covered in Idaho in 1860. There is a copy of the patent date 1914 and signed by Woodrow Wilson it is poor quality and will not scan in. do you have any thoughts on this?

Dear Jan

I received the copy of the amended water rights you proposed. The only item changed was the listing of my name after the property listed.

The only needed change is the D domestic for camping only. This is under the #14. A living home may be built in the future.

This is a very unique piece of property. My great-great uncle Felix Warren made his last wagon stop there. People were living there in the 1850's. Uncle's sister was Mary Spaulding, Mrs. H.W. Spaulding, (son of the missionary), so my Aunt Mary.

I filed for my adjudication June 3 1988, which was received July 11, and dated July 18 by your office. Filing was done by one of your representatives in the Court House. The American Way. I feel this was done in the most probable way.

I am returning your amended copy, and your comments, but will maintain copies of each. Please read your nine proposed changes and the comments I felt to be necessary. I am enclosing a complete description of the property, which by the way has the government seal for surveying, A part of the papers giving water rights in 1914 signed by president Woodrow Wilson, and a surveyed copy of the parcel.

Thanks. I realize this has been a difficult project for all Idahoans. Would be great to get it completed by the centennial year.

Sincerely yours,

Ruthanne Trainer
