Mr. Bowcut.

Here is a list of water rights you need to change the address on. There may be more if they are under a different name. I have blacked out those that don't need a change and those that aren't yours.

You did not receive a mailing from us because we haven't sent one yet. We are dealing with Domestic rights now. Since yours is mostly irrigation rights, they will be done later.

NOTES: The P/D in Sec 21 is within an area of Clyde Cr. that has braided channels (generally 2 to 3 active channels). The recommended diversion point is the location of a split in the channel. The Claimant has to maintain some diversion water at this point to allow water to reach the headgate. (Diversion water generally a rock wing into the main channel.)
The rate of diversion is estimated at about 300' of this point at the headgate.

SYSTEM DESCRIPTION: DESCRIBED BELOW (), SEE LICENSE FILE (), OR SEE ATTACHMENT ()

The decree lists most tributaries of Cassia creek as Cassia Cr. The change in some is considered a clerical change only & not a physical change. Cassia Cr. is approx 3 1/2 miles away.

Spaced water diverted but not taken down the ditch is returned to Clyde Cr at this point. I have labeled that point as the point of control on the recommended P/D ASCS Photo. This P/D is shown with A43-00109 (diff P/D).
The second P/D is also a rock wing in Clyde Creek, but the diversion point and headgate is at the same location. The two ditch systems are not physically joined, however, water from either system can reach portions of the P/D suggested by each respective system.

NOTES: The Found Pt is all within HES-212 as described in the dense

Several areas are normally ~~separated~~ along the south end of the Pt, there are also some small areas that water divides around and therefore doesn't indicate but these areas are small (less than 1/2 in) and have not been calculated for elevation. I am recommending all of the Found Pt as a perimeter Pt with this right limited to the number of acres that can be irrigated with 3/4" per acre, .75 in/acre as 50 in/acre = 66.7 ft = 67 ft recommendation

This picture set shows the point of control for the northern diversion from Clyde Creek. Excess Clyde Creek water is diverted upstream approximately 300 northwest of this point. The excess is allowed to go back into Clyde Creek through the channel on the left. Clyde Creek is somewhat braided at this location. I took a GPS reading at this point. You are looking southeast on the left to south on the right. This ditch is shared with A43-00190.
