This photo set is of the first diversion from Connor Creek as it leaves the canyon. This splits Connor Creek with the north channel being the normal stream channel eventually to be diverted by Wickel through two additional diversions and by Bowcut through one diversion. There are two channels within this photo but only the north (Connor Creek itself) is obvious. The other channel is on the far side of the cement wall. A GPS site reading was made at this point. You are looking south to southwest in this photo set.
