RE: SRBA Case No. 39576 165-04034 for per conversation
Dear Mr. Booth: with V. O'Loughlin

I am writing concerning the above case. The spring referred to was originally known as the "Haney Spring" and was owned by the Haneys. Property and spring rights were eventually sold to Vern and Charlene Davis. There is a right-of-way through the property owned by me to a holding tank on the Davis property.

Deeds of properties owned by those involved contain a statement "the right to use and to pipe water, as long said water supply is available, from the water pressure system owned by the grantors". The grantors were originally the Haneys.

Even though other parties now have a well, there are time the well may fail. At those times, they can then transfer to the spring water. All parties involved have a way to transfer between well and spring water. There are time the power is out and therefore wells do not work. There is an overflow at the spring house. A pail is placed under the overflow to catch the water to be used by those involved.

Hope this will assist you in your decision on the water rights claim.

Sincerely,

Vivian E. O'Loughlin
