Yes. You have the 2008 well with both Domestic and Stock under one right. Then you have the 2004 well and the currently non functioning 1979 well on the 1979 priority date right for both Domestic and Stock water. All the domestic and stock water use is covered by both rights. The addition of the 2004 well was essentially a replacement/addition to the 1979 water right. Even though the 1979 well isn't currently producing, I think it is ok to keep it as a second point of diversion.

Hi Craig:

Just opened my e-mails...

Is this the arrangement that we were trying for???

Thanks,

Steve Lorenz

I received the information you sent and have updated the claim records as well as the preliminary recommendations. I have attached the preliminary recommendations for your review.

Note that 95-14887 is recommended as disallowed. That is the claim for the 2004 well. What we did was recommend the 2004 well with the 1979 well, together with the 1979 priority date. So the use of the 2004 well is recommended with the 1979 priority.

If all looks well, then no further action is required on your part at this time. Within the next year, you will be sent copies of these recommendations 2 more times. The first round is to give you a change to review the claim and work with IDWR if you have questions or issues with the preliminary recommendations before things get sent to the court (exactly what we are doing that now). The second mailing will be the Director's Report which means it is the copy we are sending to the court for decree.

Take a look and let me know if you have any questions. Like I said, if all looks good, then you don't need to do anything. Actually....if you have a second, you might just respond to this e-mail just to let me know you got it. But outside of that, there is nothing “formal” you need to do.

Thanks,

Craig Saxton
