Field Exam Summary A25-02022B 20 November 2003
Bryce Contor
Water Resources Field Services

General Comments, A25-02022A, A25-02022B, A25-02047

See image "A25-02022A_A25-02022B_A25-02047_Notes.jpg" for a copy of field notes. The field notes refer to UTM coordinates for GPS readings for scaling on a USGS map, but the reported GPS points are converted to IDTM. See paper file A25-02022A for photos and the map guide to photos. Photos on the CD are identified as "A25-02022A_A25-02022B_X.jpg" where "X" is the photo number or numbers (some are scanned 2 photos per image) or "A25-02022A_A25-02022B_A25-02047_9.jpg" for the last photo.

These rights are related by source, location and ownership. Original licenses A25-02022 and A25-02047 were both from Seventy Creek and served adjoining lands. A25-02022 has been split by an ownership change but the owners of A and B have a family relationship. Benjamin Hunter, the claimant of split "A" is a brother to Mrs. Butler, the claimant of record of split "B." The Butler property is now owned by a partnership of Butler children. I spoke to one of the daughters on the phone and mailed a change of ownership form but I have misplaced my notes. A25-02047 is claimed by Benjamin Hunter, claimant of A25-02022A.

I met with Mr. Dalton, Mr. Passey, one of Mrs. Butler's daughters who I think is Mrs. Passey, and a young man whose name I didn't record. Mr. Dalton said he is Mr. Hunter's son-in-law and Mr. Passey said he is Mrs. Butler's son-in-law. The young man is Mr. Dalton's son-in-law.

The split of ownership appears to be correct. Part of the original POU of license 25-02022 is still in use, and includes parts of A25-02022A and A25-02022B. There has been an accomplished change in source to include some use of a spring that is tributary to the licensed stream, Seventy Creek. This includes an accomplished change in place of use. This is for the irrigation of a lawn and garden that is a few hundred feet from the original place of use.

Part of 25-02022 and all of 25-02047 were served by a ditch which all the individuals confirmed has not been used for many, many years. When they've tried to use it, it generates a wetland and the water never gets past the wetland. Photo 9 shows this part of the POU of 25-02022 and the POU of 25-02047.

Note that the license papers originally supplied are from the wrong license. I have left these in paper file A25-02022A and added the correct microfiche copies from IDWR Eastern Region.

General Comments, A25-02022B

This right has a small part of the irrigated pasture POU that shares the POD of A25-02022A. It also has a lawn and a garden POU that use a spring POD which is an accomplished change in source. The spring is a tributary of the original source. The owners are planning to come to IDWR to amend the claim and to file stockwater claims.

Ownership

I mailed a change of ownership form, but I have lost my notes. The new owner is a partnership with the same mailing address as the current claim.

POD

Two POD. One is the creek POD shared with A25-02022A, waypoint 84, IDTM 678,697E 235,418N. The second is the spring POD that serves the lawn and garden, waypoint 85, IDTM 678,526E 235,401N.

POU

See sketch on layout in A25-02022A. See change of ownership papers to correctly locate property line between the two rights.

Overlap

POD shared w/ A25-02022B.

Conflict

None noted.

Priority

March 25, 1910 per license.

Quantity

Per license, 0.02 cfs/acre for acres identified w. GIS.

Water Use

Irrigation confirmed. Stockwater and domestic also found. Claimants may amend claim or file additional claims.
