To Whom it May Concern:

Enclosed are two claims for City of Boise water rights. Because of the City's interest in transferring water rights to municipal use for future use, an explanation of these claims is necessary.

Under Idaho law municipalities have the opportunity to maintain existing water rights for future public uses in growing communities. Earlier this year City of Boise representatives met with Phil Rassier, Norm Young, and Jeff Peppersack of your office to discuss how the City should proceed with the transfer water rights to municipal use. At that time it was determined that the City could claim any unclaimed rights, then submit a planning horizon document which would include explanations of future uses and time frames for use of the water. In addition, IDWR asked that the planning horizon document include a list of all water rights that the City of Boise anticipates holding for future use. Upon IDWR's acceptance of the planning horizon document the City could proceed with transferring the water rights to municipal use. In the process of developing the planning horizon document, we discovered two City of Boise water rights that had not been previously claimed in the SRBA.

The attached claims are for these two Boise City water rights. These are licensed water rights which have been unused for a number of years. The claim forms reflect the information on the licences although there are no current points of diversion or places of use. It is our understanding that these water rights are available for the City to claim and then hold as municipal use water rights for future public uses in our City. Please call me at 384-3984 of Matt Wilde, at the City Attorney's Office at 384-3870 if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
