We, the undersigned, being first duly sworn,

tributary to Marsh Creek and water from Marsh Creek tributary of Fortneuf river has been used for irrigation of 152 acres homesteaded by Robert Edwin Cole and now owned by Royal and Ruth Cole. This property is located in section 30, T 10 S, R 37 E, Bannock County. This water has been used on said property each year from April 1 to November 1 since Robert E. Cole Homesteaded said property in 1901. (This instrument to void prior instrument No. 526097

IN THE MATTER OF:

AFFIDAVIT

Water Rights on Arimo Ditch

State of Idaho

County of Benneek

May 1, 1978

Harman H. Reiser

being first duly sworn, deposes and says: The original Arimo ditch was built by Mr. Evans before we homesteaded our farm in 1908. The water that was filed on was from Yago Creek not Peck Creek. At that time Peck Creek was only a very small creek and was a branch of Yago Creek. The Portneuf Marsh Valley Canal was built in 1912 and the water was first turned into the canal in 1913. After the water was turned into the Portneuf Marsh Valley Canal, Peck Creek became a larger stream.

Today it is the main stream and Yago Creek is a small branch.

When we homesteaded in 1908, Charlie Fink, a neighbor to the east of our homestead, had the Arimo Ditch running through his farm, but he could not use any water from the ditch. Mr. Tom Coffin who married Mrs. Evans after the death of Mr. Evans, then farmed the Evans farm. Charlie Fink's land below the ditch was dryland because he could not use any water from the Arimo Ditch.
He could not even use any water for a garden. The land just north of Charlie Fink's farm (which is now owned by Royal Cole) was in the same condition as the Charlie Fink farm. Both were dry land. The Arimo ditch carried water through both farms that they were not allowed to use.

In 1925 or 1926 the State of Idaho allowed people living on a ditch or a stream to use surplus (high water). Charlie Fink was then able to take water out of the Arimo Ditch and irrigate his land. The Charlie Fink farm was the first farm on the ditch. Charlie Fink began to use water from the Arimo Ditch on his farm from 1925 or 1926 until he sold his farm. All those who have owned the farm since have used the water. Water has been used continuously since 1925 or 1926. Today the Charlie Fink Farm is owned by Wayne Wheatly.

Robert Cole or Royal Cole First took water from the Arimo ditch many years after 1925. They never took it before 1925 because Mr. Tom Coffin would not let them use any water.

I know these facts to be true because I lived on the Reiser Farm continuously from 1908 to 1976.

AFFIDAVIT

Water Rights on Arimo Ditch

State of Idaho)
County of Bannock)

July 20, 1982

Richard Carl Reisner

being first duly sworn,

deposes and says: Charlie Fink had a Ditch, ("Rimo Ditch), running through his farm. He never used any water out of the ditch. The lower part of his farm was meadow which he used for hay. Between the meadow and the ditch was sage brush and dry grass. From the time we moved into our house in 1908 until I left home in the spring of 1922, Charlie Fink never used any water from the Arimo Ditch. This land is now owned by Wayne Wheatly.

We (Ida, Herman, Richard and Elsie) went to school in Arimo from 1909 to 1913. My father worked in Arimo as a blacksmith so we went with him.

There was a road that went through Charlie Fink's farm. The road went through the next farm to the north and on into Arimo.

In the years I went to Arimo School Charlie Fink did not use any water out of the Arimo Ditch. Also the farm to the north of Charlie Finks farm did not use water out of the Arimo Ditch.

In the years from 1913 to 1922 there was never any water used on the farm north of Charlie Finks farm. This land is now owned by Royal Cole.
