This is an aerial photograph overlaid with a grid system. The grid consists of thick green lines forming a primary grid and thinner blue lines forming a secondary grid. A yellow callout box with a black border points to a rectangular area in the center-left of the image. This area contains a cleared field with some buildings and a road. Another yellow callout box is located in the lower right quadrant, pointing to a small circular feature in a forested area. The terrain is mostly forested with some cleared patches and roads.
