Commissioners present: Tom S. Stroschein, John A. "Jack" Nelson, Jennifer Barrett
Date: June 25, 2007
Time Commence: 1:00 p.m.
Time Adjourned: 1:20 p.m.
Minutes taken by: Kara Rickert, Deputy
Session Taped: Yes

1:00 PM Protest of Valuation by Eric Alsterlund, Parcel Number RP41N06W244794A –
adjusted by motion and order
Present: Full Board
Also Present: Patrick Vaughan, Assessor
Susan Ripley and Jerry Coleman
Applicant: Eric Alsterlund
EA>seems that the whole thing is an arbitrary figure pulled out of thin air, don't understand how the value of my land goes up every year, no well on it and has no legal easement...will research on the internet how you do assessment...if you can explain the wisdom and logic to it...will it go up another 2,000 next year...has gone up 400% in the last 10 years...
enter Exhibit #1 into the record – POV Application
PV>Jerry Coleman to address our case
Exhibit #2, assessor's packet...
JC>how we assessed rural properties in LC...photo of Man. Home on the land...20,131, 49,000...69,131... sale #1, Troy, in June '6, 120,000, man. Home is a 1980, 11.87 acres, land value is different because of the acreage and this had a timber exemption... sale #2 – on Casper, close to same distance from Moscow, 130,000 in June, 1975 man. Home, same size...3.66-acres sale #3 – park road, June '06, 1979 man. Home...on 5.05-acres with that market information that we used to base assessed value on Mr. Alsterlund's property
JN>assessed valuation doesn't say anything about the buildings
JC>he's only protesting the value of the land, but for assessment we look at them together...
JN>if it was just a piece of ground, you couldn't get the homeowner's exemption...non of the comparables, they didn't state what the ground was worth alone
JC>correct, they sold as a package
TS>but you did break out the land on each of them
EA>are they comparable lands, with easements or wells, had asked the Assessor to address that PV>assume that they probably do, but will let Jerry address that...you have access and you do have water, unless you don't which we could address...a parcel can not be denied access...a lot of people come in to say that they couldn't sell it for what they are assessed for...
EA>there is no legal access and no water on it...in the comparables the homes are very comparable but the land, they all have access and water and I do not
PV>probably can't answer to Eric's satisfaction...
JN>on the comparables, the acres are the comparable
EA>don't understand how the value can go up about 2,000 a year without any improvements on it...
JN>you don't have any sales of land without a home

JC>the first spreadsheet...just bare land sales without utilities...

TS>the figure is per acre?

EA>is this farm ground?

JC>could be anything, they were just sales

JN>probably do know that they were eligible for a building permit

JC>we don't know...have the general location, J-K area, around Genesee, Princeton-Harvard, near-Moscow, north of Potlatch...since issue is easement, did some research recess briefly for Mr. Alsterlund to retrieve some papers from his car

1936

EA>Idaho Supreme Court Decision
(Susan Ripley departs to make copies)

JB>do you have access to this property, you can get there?

EA>like an adverse right-of-way...by being able to use the road since 1984 I have an adverse easement, but if I were to sell it that wouldn't be there...I can get to it...was originally a farm road, 1.5 miles of private road that is owned by 3 separate parties...

TS>information from Jerry

JC>when issue was brought up I contacted PA office regarding land-locked parcels, memo from Judith stating that in Idaho you can not land lock a piece of property

JN>if I own some land, sell off a chunk, would I have to give you access

JC>if you don't have access it is not a legal split, you can not create a parcel...

EA>if you took it because I didn't pay my taxes you'd have to battle to get access

JN>I'm not sure that we'd have to...

EA>think that something that has been argued in court would hold more weight than just this memo...if someone buys it how would they have an adverse easement without showing their need

PV>this decision is based on an easement by prior use

TS>if there is a prior use...entered exhibit #3, as supreme court information, and exhibit #4 is letter from PA through Jerry...

EA>land values that were brought in all had access

JC>what we are assessing in utility value is the use of power, phone, water, etc...even if the well is not on the property, if there is use of water to that property then we assess it accordingly

TS>do you have water from another source?

EA>we have a community well, but it is on my brother's property...

JN>the community well that you draw from now is on another property?

EA>yes, we went in together to put it in...

JN>if I bought your property I wouldn't have access to it?

EA>no...wouldn't sell it saying there was water on it, but you could probably drill your own well...

PV>utility...standard assessment for a rural parcel

JN>the '07 value is going to 40 so

JN>9800

TS>yeah, an acre

JN>current value that we're

JC>7800 per acre with 10,000 of utility value

JN>total value, with utility included...at 5 at 39,000, back at that 7800

AE>so will it be going up to 9000 next year?

TS>next year is not the issue here

JC>assessing the availability of water, power, phone and road...we can certainly remove the water and put it on his brother's

AE>it is on his property

TS>how do you divide that water on this utility

JC>not uncommon in LC to not have a well on your property...

JN>if I buy a property with a productive well on it, I'd give you more than if it didn't...

SR>5500 is the amount attributed to water on that utility portion

TS>transfer to the brother since he's giving water

JN>think the land value is right, maybe the utility value...it's 5500, take that in half to

TS>to 7500 to utility and leave the land value?

JB>support that recommendation

JC>is this an adjustment just for Mr. Alsterlund, or for all properties in LC that don't have a well?

JN>having a legal easement would make a difference...problems there now with that Commissioner Barrett makes motion to adjust utility value – passed unanimously
