RE: Ownership change for SRBA claim A36-02359

Dear Mr. Henry:

Scott King, with the water measurement program in the State Office of IDWR, brought to my attention a problem concerning the recorded ownership on the referenced claim. I have reviewed the claim file and the sequence of events, and IDWR has corrected our computer records so that the claim, 36-02359, is now in the name of Henry Farms. A copy of the IDWR computer information is enclosed. However, the Snake River Basin Adjudication Court has a separate process to update their information. I offer the following recommendation in order to complete the last step in putting your name on the adjudication court records.

If the Court's owner data is not updated, the right WILL be decreed, but you may not receive the documentation of the decree for your right. To change your ownership with the court you need to complete the Standard Form 3 (SF-3) which I have enclosed. Part of this form requires that the former owner sign it. However, during my talk with Scott he said that you told him that you have tried to contact the former owner and have been unable to locate him. If this is so, then completing the form, SF-3, is more difficult.

I have discussed this situation with an assistant deputy attorney general in our State Office. Based on the assumption that you cannot locate the former claimant, he suggests filing the SF-3 with supporting documentation in place of his signature. To this end I have enclosed copies of the submitted IDWR claim ownership change form with recorded warranty deed, and the dated modified claim, A36-02359 (all received on 11/26/90). You should, perhaps, write a cover letter which explains your request for consideration of the SF-3 without the previous owners signature. It may help the court if you describe your attempts to contact the former owner, such as when, for what purposes, and how you tried to contact him.

If the court can't accept the ownership change (SF-3) pursuant to their rules of procedure, please contact this office and we will continue to work with you to correct this situation. If you have any questions please contact me.

Sincerely,
