Good morning,

I received your email. I will add those photos as evidence for your claim to support the priority date.

I was not present at the Latah county fairgrounds when the adjudication staffed helped file claims, so I do not know exactly what they had access to or showed you. Here is a link to our webpage that can be used to find water rights/claims. <https://idwr.idaho.gov/water-rights/adjudication/research.html> . This can be used to find specific water right numbers, or they can be found by searching the location by map or other characteristics such as legal descriptions. Another website I find useful when searching the history of a property is the Bureau of Land Management's GLO Records website. <https://glorerecords.blm.gov/default.aspx#searchTabIndex=0&searchByTypeIndex=1> . I find the "Land Patents" tab most helpful, and search the property by using the legal description.

If you have any questions related to water rights and are having troubles finding the answers on our website, please feel free to call the department and we would be happy to help.

Lastly, please mail the change in address form to the address listed below. The department requires the original signatures in order to complete the change in address in our database.

Sincerely,

Christopher Holmes

Christopher,

Attached is a copy of your notice dated November 4, 2020. I've also attached front and back scans of the photo evidence referenced in your notice. I've also attached a copy of the photo annotating with red arrows to the berm that contains the pond from the meadow below it to the north. It appears to be freshly excavated in the picture dated Feb 1964.

When we came to the Latah fairgrounds to file this claim, the person with whom we met, showed us some records online that were either county of public notice records related to the pond. Can you provide a reference to access to the data we saw there?

I've also attached a change of address form - we dropped the PO Box over a year ago and when updating the change of address, the IDWR case wasn't on our minds.

Regards,

Todd & Billie Weston
