	Narrative: Water right 27-7071 has been leased to the Water Supply Bank from 2006 through Dec. 30, 2020. The right was decreed in 2007. No other rights overlap with the place of use. The place of use may be used for dry land farming, which appears to be the practice with the neighboring properties in the area. Analysis of the normalized difference vegetation index (NDVI) of a portion of the place of use, using Google's Climate Engine, gave results that would be consistent with crops grown on non-irrigated lands. On Jan. 19, in reply to my inquiry from Jan. 15, the applicant confirmed that the place of use (POU) has been used for dry-land farming and no irrigation occurred within the POU during the previous lease. Regional staff replied on Jan. 15 with no concerns regarding the proposed lease. There appears to be a shift in the projection of the PLS boundaries in GIS, compared to the tax parcel boundaries that were used to help define the place of use. The PLS legal descriptions on the contract are the correct description of the acres to be leased. The accompanying map is only a general reference.

Dave,

I performed a field inspection of the authorized points of diversion in 2008/2009. There was no diversion infrastructure present at that time. I have reviewed aerial photos and can't see any evidence of pumping equipment. I don't have any comments or concerns with the proposed WSB lease.

Hello James,

Tri-C has applied to renew their lease to the Water Supply Bank. The right has been leased to the Bank since 2006.

The place of use to be idled does appear to be used for a crop of some kind, but the surrounding area in general appears to be used for dry-land farming. There are a lot of cultivated fields, but no overlapping water rights. Do know of any reason that I should not assume that the place of use has been idled during the previous lease (2006-2020)?

Please let me know if you have any comments or concerns with the proposed lease. Thank you,
