SUBJECT: Review to determine if In-house Exam is Possible

I determined that a field exam may be prudent for this field exam. The permit is for a spring, and the permit holder provided photos of a two 4' X 4' cement culverts used for watering troughs. I couldn't tell if the two troughs were piped together or if they are completely separate system. If they are separate systems, then the permit will need to be amended and split. There also appears to be a pond in the same place of use, so I am not sure if that is part of the stockwater or not. With this issues, I don't feel comfortable for our office to do an in-house exam.
