Jim,
The permit as approved only located the wells down to the 40 acre tract. If the well(s) are located in the proper 40 acre tract as permitted there is no need to amend the permit. Had the permit been issued with the location of the wells described in a specific 10 acre tract the permit would need to be amended. If there are easement issues at the slightly different location you will need to get that squared away prior to drilling.

If you have further questions let me know.
Allen

Allen,

If the HOA decides to move one of the new wells authorized under this permit in the SWSE S.35 from the NWSWSE to the NESWSE are they required to amend the permit? I know a similar move for a licensed right requires a transfer - just not sure about a permit. Please get back to me as soon as you can. Thanks.

Jim
