I am concerned that drilling a new well on proposed dairy will deplete the aquifer and I will have to drill deeper for water. This will cause a financial burden on me, and I could lose property value.

I was told there was not a water master so how can we be sure that the amount of water to be transferred is correct? The water usage would have to be monitored or else its just a "paper transfer" in my eyes.

The residents of this community on the Salmon Tract know how precious water is. We are frugal with our water consumption . These dairies are not family friendly dairies. They are industries that should not been allowed to build on the Salmon Tract where water is scarce. They are using more than their share of water now.
