Re: Irrigation from a Domestic Well

Dear Mr. Hansen:

The Idaho Department of Water Resources (IDWR) received a letter of concern that you are using a domestic well to irrigate considerably more than one-half acre. This was alleged to begin recently after the ditch water was shut off for this year. IDWR lacks information to confirm whether or not you are irrigating from a well. The purpose of this letter is to notify you of Idaho statutes in this matter.

A domestic well for a single home does not require a water right if irrigation from the well is limited to one-half acre of land associated with the home, I. C. §§ 42-111, 42-227 and 42-229. Irrigation beyond that does require a valid irrigation right. The property owned by your corporation and associated with your domestic well is within Township 2 North, Range 1 East, Section 18, NW ¼ SW ¼ (aka NWSW). Adjacent land owned by your corporation is in the NESW just east of the home site. Your property does not have ground water irrigation rights.

Please disregard this letter if you are not irrigating more than one-half acre from your well. If you are irrigating more than that or want to irrigate more than that in the future, please be aware you should seek an approved water right issued by IDWR. Irrigation without a water right puts the irrigator at risk of legal consequences.

You may file an Application for Permit to seek a new irrigation water right by using the enclosed form. The maximum amount of water to irrigate up to 5 acres is 0.03 cfs/acre (1.5 inches/acre). The maximum amount for more than 5 acres is 0.02 cfs/acre (1 inch/acre). You may file for a lesser amount for supplemental irrigation if you prefer. A new water right application would require a well drilling permit fee upgrade under Well Construction Rules approved by the Idaho Legislature. In this case, the 1995 domestic drilling fee of $35 would require a $165 upgrade to meet the $200 irrigation drilling fee requirement. This is in addition to the water right application fee (see enclosed fee chart).

A water bearing zone for your well should be listed in application item 11. The zone for your well is 115-205 feet based on the well driller's report. An additional copy of the driller's report is included for your records.

IDWR forms and other information are available on the Internet at www.idwr.idaho.gov. Please contact me at 208-334-2190 if you need more information.

Re: Larry Hansen – Sandstone Farms

Dear Steve:

I find this very disturbing that someone can't comply with the rest of the people in this valley with this short water year, pumping water above their allotment, depleting the underground aquifer in disregard of the accessed amount allotted for residential use without a water permit for 0.50 acre residential well provided by law.

My main reason for griping is that as a neighbor he should comply with the law and not take advantage for his own wants.

Thank you for looking into this matter.

Sincerely,

Robert Huff 2400 N. Meridian Rd. Kuna, Id. 83634
