Re: Comments

csaxton 12/7/2012 No Amendment

Comment: An amendment is not required as this is not a significant change to the permit. We are just more accurately describing the development as it has always been intended.

csaxton 12/7/2012 Nature of Use

Comment: The permit was originally issued for "Recreation" use despite that it was clear from the application that the intent was to develop storage component in the form of a pond as well. Adding diversion to storage and Recreation storage at licensing reflects what was intended to be, and was, developed. This will not enlarge the right as the diversion rate recommended for licensing is significantly less than permitted and consequently the volume is less as well.
