To Whom It May Concern,

My wife and I hold a active water right license # 65-1335 for irrigation of approximately 2 acres of our Garden Valley property lot # 18 Pine Tree Ranch # 11, which is physically in the NWNE. However, the Public Land Survey (PLS) grid address was listed on the permit as being in the NENE. The permit internal to the Department is in consistent.

The beneficial use field exam report includes photos of our property and the available taxlot layer shows our property in NWNE. The field examiner appears to have found our property and recommended 2 acres of irrigation use. However, the examiner lists the place of use in the PLS address consistent with the PLS address on the permit, i.e. NENE, not the actual, physical address that he found on the place of use.

The place of use inconsistency was not recognized at the time that the license was issued. The license has been issued showing the place of use in the NENE, not on our property where the water is used in NWNW.

We respectfully request that the Department make an internal address correction to change from NENE to where the property is located in NWNE as shown on the beneficial use field exam report.

Thank you for your assistance.

Very Truly Yours,

David L. Backus
