Sandy,

I was finally able to get through to my nephew, Alex. He has been to the spring many more times than I have. He placed the spring a little lower and to the left of where I placed it on the map I sent you the other day. Enclosed is a corrected map which shows this new location. I am not sure anyone would care about this little shift in location, but we may as well get the location of the spring as correct as we can. So, please use this new map, and discard the spring map I sent you the other day. Except for the necessary adjustment of the water line as shown on this new map, the water line location would still be the same. Hope I have not confused you. But please give me a call if any questions.

John
