Dear Mr. Saxton,

I am writing in response to your message below regarding the development of the water system on our property. As we discussed, the well was drilled, two well houses were constructed with two storage tanks, one on each property. The neighboring homeowner is drawing their water from both wellhouses and tanks, with both properties sharing from the same source under rights that were legally split. There is an underground line that from the well to our property that is capped and available for the use on our land once the homesite is developed. Our well house has the fire nozzle that was mandated by County fire department regulations.

Please let me know if you have further questions. Also, please confirm that this matter has been satisfactorily resolved. Thanks very much for your help.

Best regards,

Mark Engstrom

Subject: Water Right Permi 95-16432: Statement of Completion for Submitting Proof of Beneficial Use

Dear Mr. Engstrom,

I spoke with you on the phone on April 20, 2012 in regards to permit 95-16432. I was concerned that IDWR might have to void your permit because the filing of the Statement of Completion for submitting proof of beneficial use (proof) marks the end of the period of time to develop your water right. In other words, the proof statement is telling the Department that you are done developing and the water is being put to beneficial use. I was concerned that no beneficial use had actually been developed. You informed me that the well was drilled and power and water lines were in place, but it was just that a home hadn't been built.

From our conversation, it sounds like there has been enough development to recognize a domestic use under permit 95-16432, but I need you to please send me an e-mail or letter explaining the extent of the development of the water system on your property.

I understand you will be unavailable for a week or so, but the sooner you could get this information to me the better.

Respectfully,

Craig L. Saxton
