Attention: James Cefalo

To whom it may concern:

I, Marcene Hughes William, born Oct. 16, 1945, would like to make an account of my memories of Aldridge and Big Canyon waters, located on the north slope of the Samaria Mountains.

I remember that my grandmother, Mary Ann Waldron Hughes Morris Richards, used Aldridge Big Canyon waters during her marriage and after the death of her husband, my grandfather, David James Hughes.

She had a large family of 12 children. I listened to the stories my father told me of the large gardens and also the fruit orchard containing Peaches, pears, apples, plums and walnut trees which she watered with the waters of Aldridge and Big Canyon. It is now the year 2012. There are still remains of the plum trees and an old Black walnut tree, mostly dead, is still standing.

I also remember my father cleaning the stream in Aldridge Canyon with his little Massey 65 and small blade. He would go with that little tractor places up there where it would make a mountain climber scream. I know I would have to cover my eyes and not watch, somehow I thought if I didn't watch he wouldn't roll down the hill. Guess it worked because he never did 😊.

When I was a child have memories of our own family garden being watered with these streams. It was much better for a garden than the water out of the warm springs of the Pleasantview reservoir which is kind of salty water.

The land these gardens were on was in Section 25, Township 15 South, Range 35, East of Bosie Meridian.

My husband and I now own my grandmothers land and the waters of Aldridge and Big Canyon and go each spring with our son, Casey Levi Williams to clean and maintain the waterway.

Sincerely,

Marcene Hughes Williams 1-16-2012
