RE: Licensing Review

Date: October 3, 2011

In review of this exam I found that the county listed on the exam is in error. The point of diversion and place of use are located in Canyon County rather than Gem County as shown on the exam.

I also had questions regarding the quantity of water to be licensed. In discussing with my supervisor it was determined that we should allow the 0.04 cfs recommended by examiner since there was very little information available to determine the quantity.
