Re: Source

On the application for permit, it stated the source was a "spring," but then was crossed out and stated it was an "unnamed stream."

On the approved permit the source was an "unnamed stream."

For clarification purposes, the actual source is a developed "spring," where they dug the ground out and buried gravel to collect the water and buried 4 inch PVC pipe to divert the water to a 1200 gallon storage tank. This was confirmed during the 8/25/2011 beneficial use field examination. For this reason, the source for licensing purposes is a "spring tributary to sinks," since there is no outlet for the spring. With the source being a "spring," Condition 029 requiring screening for fish will not be included on the license.
