Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 22-7553A

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

HOWARD JENSEN FARMS

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 22-7711

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 25-7523

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 31-7310

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 32-7137

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 33-7190

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 34-13881

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-7885B

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-8335

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-8661

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-8747B

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. FRED GEHRING & SON INC

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-8932 MPH FARMS

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-13377

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-13813

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-7471

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8227

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8263

Dear Water Right Owner:

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8403

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8432

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8522

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8560B

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8586

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8736

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-8800

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-16201

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-16553

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 36-16740

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-7771

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8091
DEAN R ROGERS INC

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8225A
CHARLES T & KATHLEEN MAHER FOLEY

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8413

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8559

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

THE ALTON & PAULA HUYSER TRUST UNDER TRUST AGREEMENT DTD 4-1-2001

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8720

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-8855

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-20726

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

TIMBERVIEW TERRACE HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-21278

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-21435

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-21644

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-22213

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-22436

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 37-22573

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

STEADMAN BROTHERS DAIRY

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 45-7584

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 45-7686

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

FARMLAND RESERVE INC

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

V & R FARMS PARTNERSHIP

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 47-7519A

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 47-8019

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 47-8226

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 47-8283

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 47-17462

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 57-7507

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 61-7575

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you do not wish to continue diverting trust water, you may formally abandon your water right and avoid the term review process and possible future mitigation requirements. A form is available to document an abandonment of a water right on the Department's website at www.idwr.idaho.gov.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 35-7873

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Re: Trust Water Term Review for Water Right No. 34-7547

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

If you have questions about the term review process, please contact one of the offices of the Department of Water Resources:

Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

Dear Water Right Owner:

Water right records of the Idaho Department of Water Resources indicate that you are the owner, represent the owner, or have a security interest in a water right or permit based on an appropriation of "trust water" pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code (see http://www.legislature.idaho.gov/idstat/Title42/T42CH2SECT42-203C.htm). Trust water consists of flows of water in the Snake River and its surface and ground water tributaries between Swan Falls Dam and Milner Dam that are in excess of the minimum stream flows established at the Murphy U.S.G.S. gauging station on the Snake River near Swan Falls. The State of Idaho holds Snake River hydropower water rights exceeding the minimum flows "in trust" and these rights are subordinated to other uses, including your water right, pursuant to state law and subject to the conditions set forth in your water right.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information expressing your intent to continue the beneficial use of trust water and other information providing details of the status of your water right.

[1] If you are the owner of a water right permit subject to a stay in development by order of the Department, or if your permit has not been developed for other reasons, this letter does not change the status of your permit and the term review described in this letter will still apply.

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.

One of the conditions of approval of your water right provides that the right is subject to a term review to determine availability of water and to reevaluate the public interest. The term on your water right may have recently expired or will expire in the coming years. The purpose of this letter is to inform you that your right will be reevaluated to determine if trust water is available for diversion and if your continued use of trust water remains in the public interest pursuant to Section 42-203C, Idaho Code. [1]

The Department will contact you when review of your right is to begin. The Department does not anticipate beginning reevaluation until after the Snake River Basin Adjudication workload and other priorities are mostly completed. At that time, you will be asked to provide information

If you seek to continue diverting trust water under your right, you are not required to do anything at this time. The Department will include your right in a review of trust water availability and the public interest for future allocation of trust water. Depending on the Department's determination of water availability and to ensure that the minimum flows at the Murphy gauge are sustained, mitigation will likely be required to continue diverting water under your right. For example, mitigation might be accomplished through the assessment of a fee on trust water rights that would finance a state action such as storage acquisition to provide replacement water to sustain the minimum stream flows. Please note that this mitigation requirement may be in addition to any mitigation that you may already be providing for this right due to delivery calls associated with the East Snake River Plain Aquifer. You will have opportunity to request reconsideration and/or appeal the Department's decision as provided under Idaho law and rules of the Department.
