Dear Benny,

As per our conversation last week, I have put together a rundown of activities watering operations of John Rietsma's organic dairy; operated by Sean Mallet.

Two 500 Gallon Stock tanks mounted on skids are placed in each pasture used during the grazing season. At times eight of these portable tanks are filled with water from hoses that have adapters coming from a main line running parallel to roadways into paddocks. Pastures make up half of section 12, with the remainder land in two center pivots growing organic hay. Stock tanks are used in these two fields, and may be permanent or portable, and will be determined later.

The land in section 13 that is located south of feeding operations will be used as pasture in the future, and will use the same kind of setup with stock tanks mounted on skids.

Stock water is also used at the feeding facilities located on the map attached to the transfer file.

Please feel free to contact me if you have further questions about the operations of this organic dairy.

Thank you

Stan Haye
