Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per woman (Y-axis, 0 to 6) across different levels of education (X-axis, 0 to 12 years) for four countries: Argentina, Brazil, India, and Mexico (Z-axis). The chart shows that higher education levels generally correspond to lower fertility rates across all four countries. For example, in Argentina, the number of children per woman decreases from approximately 4.5 for 0 years of education to about 1.5 for 12 years of education. Similar trends are observed in Brazil, India, and Mexico, though the overall fertility rates are higher in India and Mexico compared to Argentina and Brazil.
