RE: Status of Permit 63-11439 for Trinity Springs Inc.

A conference call was conducted today to discuss the status of this permit. Norm Young initiated the call. The participants included:

- Chris Meyer, attorney for Trinity Springs Inc.
- Norm Young, consultant for Trinity Springs Inc.
- Bruce Smith, attorney for possible buyer of Trinity Springs Inc.
- Steve Lester for IDWR.

The callers wanted to verify that the permit remained in good standing without any apparent licensing problems.

Summary of key events for licensing:

- proof of beneficial use with correct fee filed November 2000, implies IDWR exam to follow
- sometime after proof filing, certified examiner hired to complete the field exam report (Norm Young)
- certified examiner stated today that prior conversations with IDWR (Glen Saxton?) confirmed okay for private exam to replace expected IDWR exam
- certified examiner stated today that field report would be submitted soon for licensing.

There do not appear to be any significant roadblocks to license the permit once the completed field exam is received. This assumes all conditions of approval have been met. Timing to issue the license might be a problem due to department backlogs, but the callers appeared comfortable with that. They might request expedited licensing after the field report is submitted.
