Thank you, I have added the photos to the file.

Knowing that the system has been changed significantly since inauguration, taking a contemporary water measurement will not provide meaningful information for capacity.

Were you able to locate pump curves from the pump supplier(s) or the owner-operator of this distribution system? The pump curves indicate what design conditions a pump is installed to meet. They are typically supplied to the owner-operator with the pump and its operation and maintenance manuals. Those curves would provide a means for me to get at a capacity without a measurement.

Michele:

I'm finally getting back to you on the township park estates matter. Attached are photographs of the well house and wells for your file. You can see the well house and the two well casings in the photos.

I was also able to confirm that a 15 hp pump and a 7.5 hp pump were initially placed and used in the wells. This is consistent with the bid documents I previously provided to you. A few years ago, during high usage, the subdivision suffered from low pressure, and the 7.5 hp pump was replaced with another 15 hp pump to provide additional pressure. The pump did not add additional diversion capacity, but did provide additional pressure.

Let me know if you have any additional questions. Thanks again for all of your assistance.
