Rob,

In previous conversations you related your client finished construction of the ponds under these permits in 2008. The expectation was the ponds would remain full through the winter and consequently there would be no need for further mitigation going into the 2009 irrigation season. Would you please verify with your client whether the ponds are full or if they need to make arrangements for further mitigation during 2009? Please report back to me so I can forward the information to the State Office.

Thanks
