A request for giving approval for the city of Moscow to sell water to the Hawkins company will be brought before you soon. The Hawkins company will be building the development, not in Latah County but in Whitman County Washington with all the services being provided by Moscow. Moscow City Council agreed to this sale in a closed meeting. The public has had no opportunity to discuss the desirability of this agreement nor its impact on the Palouse aquifer. The agreement created an unprecedented public policy of selling water and sewer services across the state line and to a private company.

In your deliberations, please realize that we have had no opportunity to address this decision. Your hearings will be our only opportunity to discuss the probable impact on the aquifer and the legitimacy of the sale. Please hold the hearings locally so we can put our concerns before you and schedule adequate time for the public to discuss the situation with you.
