Re: Application for Permit No. 63-32185, Roswell Marsh Wildlife Habitat Area

Dear Jerry:

I understand you discussed the above referenced application with John Westra recently. Apparently the consultant no longer represents the applicant in this case. John advised me to contact you directly to clarify the application. Processing can continue once a few items are clarified per Idaho Department of Water Resources (IDWR) standards.

The main items involve storage ponds. IDWR terminology in these cases includes diversion to storage and a storage factor to cover the capacity of the ponds. Additionally, we need to include the anticipated water bearing zone associated with the existing well and possible proposed wells and/or any shallow ground water intercepted by the ponds.

The "test well" from a few years ago for this project was drilled under the $75 domestic well label. Use of this well for the proposed application requires an additional $125 to upgrade the drilling permit from a $75 domestic category to a $200 production well level. Please remit the additional $125 at your earliest convenience. Based on your request, IDWR can send you an interagency billing for electronic payment of that fee.

I have enclosed a marked up copy of the application for your consideration. It lists suggested changes to the application. A fresh form, also enclosed, can be completed, signed and submitted to amend the application for processing to continue. Attach a request for interagency billing if you prefer that approach. Please let me know if you have any questions about the enclosed information.

I look forward to hearing from you. Thank you for your attention to these matters.

Sincerely,

Steve Lester
Water Rights Supervisor

Three points of diversion are shown since the test well was inconclusive as to whether a single well can produce 6.00 cfs at this location. Only the well(s) needed to produce the requested water supply will be constructed. water bearing zone to be appropriated is — to — ft.
