Re: 9434 Bonanza Lane, Melba, ID. 83641

My property is located adjacent to the property address listed above and we share the same private road access to our homes. The Temples moved into the existing home in the fall of 2003 and we moved into our home at 9451 Bonanza Lane in December of 2004. We have observed their use of their well water. My husband has even installed a water softener system for the Temples.

I have observed the occupants watering the wind-row, fruit and shade trees they have planted. Most of the trees are those fast growing poplars to create a southwest side wind break for their green house site. The wind comes across the valley so hard from that direction that it has destroyed their green house cover twice. Since the second lost cover they have stopped their commercial green house crop plans until they can either afford to install more durable green houses or have developed a wind-break system.

They have lost a few trees but keep them fairly well watered during the dry season. They also water the yards and flowers for about 1 acre around their house. Their home is heated by pumping their warm well water through a radiator system that is part of their central heating system.

During the 3 years I have been their neighbor and observed them, they have planted about 120 trees and about 70 have survived. They have also had garden activities each year as well. The garden is replanted each year and vegetables harvested from it. The fruit trees are still too young to produce fruit as yet but continue to grow taller and larger.

Their expressed future plans are to install green houses and heat them from their warm water well and install a holding pond on the lower east end of their property for the green house heat water discharge storage and irrigation pond as part of the new green houses installation.
