Re: Licensing Review

ANNUAL VOLUME -- The field examiner did not recommend annual diversion volumes for the two beneficial uses, domestic and stockwater, associated with the permit. I determined the volumes recommended for licensing as follows. For stockwater, the permit indicated 200 head of cattle. The field examiner did not report a number of cattle, so I assumed that 200 is still correct. The volume of 2.7 AF is the standard for 200 head of range cattle. The domestic use is for two homes but only one half-acre lawn. The recommended volume is 0.6 AF per home plus 0.6 AF for the lawn.
