History of Water Use

Albert Johnson and Mary Johnson sold the property to Arnold McMullen on October , 1966.

In 1969 McMullen and the next-door neighbor, Earl Collett, worked together to put in parallel water lines to the Pend Orielle River. These water lines have been in use ever since.

McMullen sold the property to Thomas and Marie Draper in August , 1983.

Drapers sold the property to Boyd and Rosemary Founds in September, 1988.
The original waterlines are in use as they were when installed in 1969.

The present owners of the Collett property, Gary and Alana Reich, have recorded water rights using the original lines put in by Earl Collett and Arnold McMullen.

We hope this information will help establish a record of the continual domestic use of water at this site.
